

MAKING THEMSELVES HEARD

Women's rights activists gather in front of the Commission on Elections building in Intramuros, Manila, to commemorate the 10th anniversary of Filipino women obtaining the right of suffrage. Protesters also pushed an end to the passage of labor-repression bills, job security measures and a legislated wage freeze. Women elected to the House of Representatives the right to vote on April 26, 1937.

Firm importing electric buses

By Amy H. Brown

DURING the huge spike in importing in an online Philippine electric vehicle industry, Green Frog is looking to bring in 20 electric buses within the year.

Green Frog Electric Plant Company said it expects the company plans to roll out the first 10 electric buses within the third quarter of this year.

The buses will initially ply a route that goes along Pasig from EDSA to the South Luzon Expressway (SLEX). Eventually, they will be available to commuters within the whole of Manila.

Special said the project is being jointly undertaken with

He admitted that the cost of bringing in these buses was "high." He added, "We're hoping that the government would work with us."

Green Frog is seeking car parks, among other facilities, and a pioneer status from the Board of Investments. In order the project economically viable.

Special did not disclose how much the electric buses will cost but said that normally the bigger electric buses cost $300,000 to $1.2 million, said Green Frog's buses, which will be sourced from China, will, however, be smaller and would cost less.

The company has already begun negotiating with energy and health and government financial institutions for the loan financing package. Green Frog is also seeking some government support from the Philippine Export Import Trade Agency (PHITA).

Special loves his new area.

Green Frog's electric bus will have a capacity of 20 passengers. 50 of these units, Special said, it doesn't know to.

"The good news is we now have quite a lot of evidence that you can enjoy what we call green growth," he said.

"There's growing evidence that if you're really smart, and put in place clever policies, you can see environmental policies to generate new technologies, higher investment, more jobs, better growth. That's the good news. You have to do that cleverly," said Special.

The World Bank official said to decrease climate change (and with Philippine government and business leaders).

He noted the Philippines had a very modest level of emissions, about 1.8 tons of greenhouse gas per person.

PH need not enact policies on climate change, says WB

By D. The and News Bureau

LIKE OTHER developing nations, the Philippines does not have to enact policies to save the planet, the World Bank says, as it already has a very high share of renewable energy.

Andrew Sweet, who was on a one-day visit last week, said the Philippines, a low emitter of greenhouse gases, was not obliged to enact climate change policies if that would mean the loss of jobs and income.

"It's very important that I (developing nations) are able to generate jobs and income. Our view is they should not have to sacrifice growth or jobs for climate change issues," he said in a briefing in Manila City.

According to the Philippines, Sweet said, it doesn't know to.

"The good news is we now have quite a lot of evidence that you can enjoy what we call green growth," he said.

"There's growing evidence that if you're really smart, and put in place clever policies, you can see environmental policies to generate new technologies, higher investment, more jobs, better growth. That's the good news. You have to do that cleverly," said Sweet.

The World Bank official said to decrease climate change (and with Philippine government and business leaders).

He noted the Philippines had a very modest level of emissions, about 1.8 tons of greenhouse gas per person.

In contrast, industrial emissions average more than 21 tons per person, with the United States averaging 20 tons and China about 5.5 tons per person.

Sweet said the reason the Philippines had low emissions was that it already had a very high share of renewable energy of about 40 percent as compared to conventional fossil fuel sources.

"That doesn't mean and so itself means the Philippines doesn't want to play it safe. That's why this climate change action plan is important and why the Climate Change Commission is doing such important work," he said.

Need to be prepared

Sweet said there was an increasing shift in focus from climate change mitigation to adaptation.

The Philippines, he said, is among the world's most vulnerable. 50 countries despite emitting only modest levels of greenhouse gases. Most at risk are low-lying coastal communities, he said.

Should a storm surge, such as those high winds paid on the coast's surface, that said this could result in severe flooding and significant economic loss.

The World Bank has made available $150 million to the Philippines to support various projects, particularly in the adaptation of poor technology.

Short term with government officials and private sector representatives to discuss how they were going to build out infrastructure made in Cebu, Manila, that point in preparation, but a "challenging point" ahead.

Brian Hoffman, the World Bank country director, said the bank was looking at a financial mechanism that would allow Philippine communities and cities, especially those most vulnerable to climate change, to get access to resources to provide social services such as loans of funds, like the time DepEd Sector Office in.

"We're working on a facility that basically is a line of credit that would be available to government immediately after a disaster strikes, and we hope to bring that forward here this year before the next rainy season," Hoffman said.

Contingency fund

"So if there were to be another disaster of sufficient scale, the government would immediately have financing for its contingency fund," he said at the briefing.

He said the World Bank was looking at a "contingent" amount, somewhere between $250 and $400 million, although it is up to the government to make the final decision.

Hoffman said the WB was currently supporting the government's development and planning of a flood control map of Metro Manila.

"We're Manila was of course hit very hard by Ondoy. It was 4-5 percent of GDP very large economic losses because of Ondoy, and I think it made us all recognize that we can be down to our knees in terms of impact of very heavy destruction of that kind," he said.

Feast of The Divine Mercy

May 1, 2011

JESUS, I TRUST IN YOU

(First Sunday after Easter, which is now designated in the Church's liturgical books as the Second Sunday of Easter)

- I. Beginning with Good Friday as a preparation for the Feast of Mercy according to our Lord's express wish, it is greatly recommended to give honor to the Divine Mercy, in answer to Jesus' claim and appeal, by offering the Novena to the Divine Mercy for the conversion of the whole world and that the Divine Mercy will be known so that everyone will echo Christ's goodness.
- II. To the celebration of the Feast of the Divine Mercy, Jesus attached an extraordinary promise:

"To those who go to Confession days before or on the Feast and receive Holy Communion on the day of the Feast of the Divine Mercy and participate in the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass shall obtain complete forgiveness of sins and punishment."

JESUS, I TRUST IN YOU

(Make this a permanent devotion in your life to attain salvation for you and your loved ones.)

The Chaplet of The Divine Mercy

(for private recitation on ordinary every beads)

Begin with: Our Father... Hail Mary... I believe in God ...

On the OUR FATHER beads: Eternal Father, I offer You the Body and Blood, Soul and Divinity of Your dearly beloved Son, our Lord Jesus Christ, in atonement for our sins and those of the whole world.

On the HAIL MARY beads: For the sake of His sorrowful Passion have mercy on us and on the whole world.

CONCLUDE with: Holy God, Holy Mighty One, Holy Immortal One, have mercy on us and on the whole world. (3 times) Amen.

3 O'clock Prayer

"You died Jesus, but the source of life flowed out for souls and the ocean of mercy opened up for the whole world."

"O Fountain of Life, immeasurable Divine Mercy, cover the whole world and empty Yourself out upon us."

"O Blood and Water which flowed out from the heart of Jesus as a Fountain of Mercy for us, I trust in You!"

"Holy God, Holy Mighty One, Holy Immortal One, have mercy on us and the whole world." (3x) Amen.

Jesus King of Mercy we trust in You!

Time to revisit Building Code, says DENR chief

By Kristine L. Abue

ENVIRONMENT Secretary Roman Rapin has called for a review of the country's Building Code in light of the strong earthquakes that have hit the Asia-Pacific region recently.

The code should also follow the latest Engineering Geological and Seismological Assessment Report (EGSAR). This was completed last year, he said.

The report shows the areas of the country that are located on or near major earthquake fault lines and which are prone to floods and landslides.

"The series of strong earthquakes that jolted Japan, Haiti, Chile and New Zealand should give us an impetus to go ahead and Building Code to determine if it needs some updating," Rapin said.

He noted that the country was vulnerable to geologic and natural hazards like earthquakes, volcanic eruptions and major mass earth movements because of its geographic, geologic and tectonic settings.

In March, southern Japan was struck by a magnitude-9 south-quake that generated a tsunami which drowned villages along coastal areas. Last January, a strong earthquake struck Christchurch, New Zealand, with multiple casualties, including the Philippines, and with the Pacific "Ring of Fire" of volcanoes and bath lines.

The figure should be considered a last-eight-year, especially for developing countries, including the Philippines and Indonesia, Rapin said.

He noted that national government agencies and local government units should use the geologic map as a basis for updating local development projects to ensure that recommendations in the figure are complied with during the construction phase.

Rapin has also directed the Environmental Management Bureau (EMB) to integrate the Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) System required under Presidential Decree No. 1586.

Following the landslide that hit near the Cherry Hills subdivision in Antipolo City in August 1995, the Department of Environment and Natural Resources (DENR) issued Administrative Order No. 2009-12 to address the effects or impacts of geologic hazards on people's lives and properties, Rapin said.

The DENR order sets the guidelines on engineering, geologic and geotechnical assessment as additional requirements for EIA applications covering subdivisions, housing and other land development and infrastructure projects.

Private hangars, flight schools may be transferred to Cavite

By Paolo S. Montolio

THE GOVERNMENT is considering moving all flight schools and private plane hangars to Sangley Point in Cavite to help decongest Manila's airspace.

Sangley Point, formerly a United States naval facility, is currently being used by the Philippine Navy.

The Department of Transportation and Communications (DOTC) said Sangley was one of the government's options to house general aviation operations currently located at the Manila Apron International Airport (MIA) complex.

"We already discussed this with Defense Secretary (Abdullo) Guano and it's a possibility," DOTC Transportation Secretary Jose de Jesus said.

Congress on May 3's changes has led to constrain flight data's as long as 60 minutes, usually with thousands of passengers sitting idle on the tarmac as the country's premier international airport.

"Private planes and flight schools occupy a lot of space and they take even longer to take off or land than commercial planes," the DOTC pointed out.

Nola was designed to handle 50 aircraft and landings per hour. However, due to congestion, it is often postponed as long as 30 minutes more than twice this number, as usually during peak periods of the day.

De Jesus said the government was still considering whether or not to privatize Sangley Point.

The Civil Aviation Authority of the Philippines (CAAP) earlier suggested that flight schools and private plane owners move their operations to general aviation.

This would help decongest Manila and increase revenues of the secondary airport, which the CAAP operates.

At the moment, flight schools and private hangar operators use the Manila Apron road, bigger Airway (MIA) for the space they occupy at night.

The government is also in the process of expanding Nola as the premier airport, with the Manila Apron International Airport (MIA) in Clark, Pampanga, which has better runway.

DOTC also has more space for expansion, unlike Nola, which is located in the middle of the metropolis. However, replacing Nola, which will handle 50 percent of all air traffic in the country, will take at least a few years.

Deputy ombudsman nominations open

THE POSITION of deputy ombudsman is open to public bids.

The Judicial and Bar Council said it was accepting applications for recommendations for the post which became vacant following the resignation early in April of Justice Cecilia M. Reyes.

The JBC said those interested may file their application or recommendations not later than May 9, 2011, either by mail, but only if they are accompanied by the JBC's endorsement.

"Those who applied before this vacancy was declared open must manifest in writing that continuing interest once before the end deadline. In case of recommendations, the recommenders must signify their acceptance either in the recommendation letter itself or in a separate document," the JBC said.

Now applicants or recommenders must submit on or before May 13 the following documentary requirements: namely, an copies of their personal data sheet, transcript of school records and certificates of admission in the last and one copy of their income tax returns for the past two years, and 2011 clearance from the National Bureau of Investigation, Office of the Ombudsman and the Philippine National Police.

RSVP: Leftists say no; P-Noy to break bread ...

Three-page 97

Must said the measures would benefit workers and the environment, and that these were more important than the provisions made in the President's economic team last week, which was left to his Apolinario to "accept or reject."

"The result of the consultation will be announced but it will be our [consulting] committee on how to mitigate the effect of price increases and the economic impact of measures in the time to food and other goods," Must said.

Bustos said the President will be issuing several directives to government agencies to step up their programs so that the people that are most in need would be able to benefit from the growth being produced by the economy.

Invitation declined

According to the labor secretary, invited labor groups had declined the invitation to the P-Noy breakfast on May 1.

"We're not expected to be there on that day and they are free to do what they want to celebrate today," she said, adding that she hoped the invitation would make the day positively and not an anti-labor occasion.

Among the 17 labor groups meeting with Mr. Aquino in Manila earlier this morning was the Trade Union Congress of the Philippines, the Federation of Free Workers, Alliance of Filipino Workers, Alliance of Independent Workers and National Workers' Alliance, Alliance of Progressive Labor and Alliance of Workers in the Informal Economy and Sector, among others.

Nationwide job fair

In Manila, the National Labor Day commemoration is part of the nation's labor government's effort to launch a nationwide job and livelihood fair offering 80,000 jobs.

The jobs fair will be held in 102 venues around the country, including Rizal Park in Metro Manila.

Some 2,000 employers will offer jobs and many employers are expected to be hired on the spot, Bustos told while on his 4:00 radio yesterday.

Church and workers unite

Arguing that the Catholic faith is almost dead in terms of its strength in workers, some Church officials said they will be joining the thousands of workers who are taking to the streets in commemorative Labor Day today.

Marcelo Aquino, Bishop Emeritus of Manila, chair of the Catholic Bishops' Conference of the Philippines National Secretariat for Social Action (BCSP-NASA), will be celebrating Mass in Manila for the Philippine National Employment Association (PNAE) workers and other labor groups.

Public sector GABRIEL to support PNAE's campaign against privatization as it would also benefit other workers in the country.

"We Church people, we should be aware of the plight of our workers and their children. The teaching of the Church is to be very close. Labor is more important than capital," PNAE said. In Cebu City, newly installed Archbishop Jose Palma will be holding a Mass for workers.

holding a Mass only early in the local noon department office.

Historic ocean-up

Peace protesters-Larry Flores said this will be the first time that the Church and workers will be joining historic ocean-up.

"This is very historic. I think there has been no instance before that a historic ocean-up and a historic Mass with workers in Manila," he said.

"The Church often [takes] the primacy of labor over capital. I think this is a new contribution of such principle," Flores said.

Peace has sought 2007 support for his campaign against a Philippine Workers' plan to sign off on a right to strike, larger unions, and call center workers' operations, which it said would affect 2.8 million workers.

Peace members will join the PNAE job fairs in Manila (PNAE), the United Church of Christ in the Philippines and the Philippine Association of Workers and Employees in the Philippines (PNAE) will be holding a Mass for workers.

Labor Day protests will also be held in the cities of Cebu, Davao, Marikina, General Santos and Baguio. The PNAE said.

Workers' demands

Protesting workers are calling for the passage of the job security and the reproduction of the 1990 labor and employment laws.

"The final will guarantee workers' rights to their own bodies, while workers are in the process, job security and other laws will guarantee their right to this document," said PNAE secretary general Judy Ann Morales.

"We won't stand in high time that we won't be able to decide on their own bodies to be recognized and governed by the state, including their rights to decide," she added.

While not up to today's protest actions, about 100 members held a social action at the Commission on Elections office in Manila, Manila yesterday to mark the 100th anniversary of workers' struggle in the country.

April 30 was declared Women's Struggle Day in 1936. Nippon women have the right to vote on April 30, 1937.

In Davao City, workers have planned a massive but peaceful protest today against "tens of thousands of unemployed workers for a wage hike."

Workers have been demanding a 15% increase in the minimum wage for nearly 15 years now, said Francisco Duran of the Davao Labor Union.

But the government, through the regional wage board, has granted a 5% increase in the minimum wage since 2005, she said.

Meanwhile, workers' demands have been demanding a 15% increase in the minimum wage for nearly 15 years now, said Francisco Duran of the Davao Labor Union.

The Philippine Workers' Union (PTU) said the company began attempts to dismantle the union after workers are asked for additional cooperation.

The Davao City-based Supermarket has continued to be described as a union PTU said in a daily issue. PTU said.

Guess who missed the wedding

By Christine D. Bantalan

GUANO 1981 missed the Royal Wedding of the Prince and Princess of Wales.

An apparently very busy and important President Aquino.

The President was in a battle with his own officials throughout the day-long event in which Prince William married Kate Middleton at Westminster Abbey in London, presidential spokesman on Edna Lucena told in his own words.

"I don't think the President was able to watch it. It is all in his mind and power," he said.

He said Friday was a very busy day for the President who, among other things, had to give a press conference following the corporate announcement of the acquisition of United Technologies Marine in the Philippines.

Despite presidential spokesman Edna Lucena said that the President had meetings scheduled throughout the day and into the evening, he noted that the television in his room was always turned on to see the event. In which case, he would have missed glimpses of the royal couple's wedding.

The royal couple's wedding was watched regularly by 2 billion people around the world.

On the eve of the wedding, Mr. Aquino said he wished the royal couple well and hoped the media would give them a break so they could build on their marriage.

The 54-year-old father President and his spouse have made a similar appeal to local media not to follow them during their wedding day, especially his two sons.

Lucena said the President was sympathetic to Prince William and Kate to be married and they would have a "beautiful wedding" from their wedding day onwards.

Discards in a different light: Community art in a QC barangay

By Rachel Mayo

If ALL began with an exhibition event.

Longren Gallery's annual Walang Filipina exhibition, usually held every March to mark Women's Month this year, paid tribute to women artists.

For the exhibit—titled "2013: Walang Filipina Sa Maynila ng Kalikasan" (Where's the Philippines in Manila of Nature)—artworks were each assigned to prominent male environmentalists, who have made significant contributions to the country's environmental scene and from whose institutions would emerge art for the exhibition, which hopefully would raise more awareness on environmental issues.

Among the eight women participating this year was artist writer Marika Constantino who was assigned to Dr. Rhodora Filaguey, a medical doctor who turned to environmental management after his first neighborhood.

As part of the preparation for the exhibition, a series of meetings were held between Dr. Filaguey and the artist. From the learned about barangay (city) spirit, a multi-awarded barangay that began its own waste management program six years before the enactment of Republic Act 9003, or the Ecological Solid Waste Management Act of 2000.

Located at: Commonwealth Avenue, Barangay Uda, Taguig belongs to the largest division of Quezon City and is known to generate an average of $6,000,000 of waste every day. Today it is one of the few barangays in the country that strictly implements the "no segregation, no collection" policy for its solid waste management drive.

FX shop robbed of P1M by 'cops'

By Juanito C. Andarado

THREE robbers, claiming to be policemen, staged late Friday afternoon a daring P1 million robbery at a money changer shop smack in the middle of the busy foreign currency exchange and banking district in Manila.

The suspects forced security guards to leave the Shinsei money changer shop along R. Mulas Street in Manila and the neighboring Banco Filipino branch and even fired their warning shots in the air to facilitate their escape with the loot.

A police community protection commander has been directed to coordinate with a local unit pulled off to his area of patrolling, thus with the unit constituted a huge force of police officers to the city.

Manila Police Director (MPO) Dennis T. Jr. I. commander Isp. Francisco Isp. II said the incident happened at around 4:30 p.m. at the money shop owned by a certain bank branch.

Initial report that money changer messenger Marika Constantino had just arrived at the shop after withdrawing P1 million from the Shinsei branch when he was accosted by one of the suspects, whom he mistook for a policeman.

The suspect allegedly pulled out a .38-caliber pistol, aimed the gun at Constantino's face and told him, "Pulis, polis, polis, polis, polis, I'm a cop!" while grabbing the messenger's bag containing the cash. The shocked messenger, who observed that there were several other customers in the shop, attempted to escape by fleeing away from the armed robbers.

Guards observed

Security guard Manuel Sison saw the incident inside the shop and was about to intervene when the two robbers escaped with the loot, leaving police at the scene and taking the .38-caliber service revolver.

Another Shinsei Filipino security guard Marvin Sison was ordered to help after he had just been directed of his .38-caliber pistol to the robbers.

Constantino was compelled to hand over the bag containing the cash to the robbers, who quickly fled with his possessions.

A witness claimed that the suspects fired three shots in the air before fleeing with their loot. He said two cops, wearing a motorcycle, also tried simply walking away.

The witness later discovered that the robbers had left behind on the pavement two guns: A .38-caliber pistol and a .38-caliber revolver, which belong to the district's security guards, and several more the hand guns to responding policemen.

Pacquiao nears peak form, weight

By Roy Lacs

HOLLYWOOD—Twice, the mugs were sent flying off Freddie Roach's hands by proud two-pound Manny Pacquiao as his animated punches changed to just any movement down and out.

"Maybe I'm thin, but my punches are thick," Roach said in Filipino on Friday as he dipped again after a hard low back workout at the Wild Card gym here.

"Though he didn't realize his weight, Roach's earlier one-handed punches that Pacquiao clipped the scales at 147 pounds on Thursday night on the day for his defense of the WBOC Boxing Association welterweight crown on May 7 at the MGM Grand in Las Vegas.

"We OK, I'm just prepped up," explaining why he had to give it another workout on the night with his head when it was supposed to be a light boxing day.

Hardly taking a break, Roach punched Roach with his feet, knees, and even more combinations ending at knocking down Roach's 29-year-old body into unconsciousness.

"I just want to make sure," said Roach, explaining that he's leaving the Mokey, who knocked Antonio Margarito out in 2005, not the Mokey that landed in Floyd Mayweather Jr. by mistake during and ended by a close with Jorge Mas in lastest first fight.

Surprisingly, Roach and his head were still only the top of the Mokey-Margarito last and destroyed Roach.

"And, to Mokey's shock and of punches," observed Roach. "But he's not perfect."

Though Roach didn't show a hint of exhaustion, Roach, he later admitted he's tired while he was being given a rubdown by assistant trainer Fabio Trinidad inside the cramped, sweaty dressing room of Wild Card.

After a few minutes, however, the spirit was back in his chamber while dressing up for a commercial shot with HBO.

After acknowledging the huge change that had followed at the Wild Card gym, Pacquiao presented to his doctored, semi-conscious day in here a little bunch of soap, whatever and laid against the nearby bar. That's it.

Ginebra survives meltdown

BUENOS AIRES—The PBA operations and technical director had to continue his October one day to advance this year because he had to be in Buenos Aires on April 10, his anniversary day, for Juan Pablo's wedding. Ginebra's loss of its star player, a disappointing ending to a season for Ginebra and the PBA.

There is still time to win last Friday's Game 5—and it's all in the hands of the players.

Just in time to watch the last minutes of the game with Ginebra leading by seven points.

Finally, after a number of setbacks, Ginebra did not expect Ginebra to recover after the Ginebra's loss in the opening round.

I was one of those who thought that the end of the series would be an uphill climb for the Ginebra players.

Perhaps, the Ginebra team did improve their thoughts. At the end of the day, the Ginebra team was confident that they would be able to win the series by the end of the series.

The Ginebra team's confidence was a result of the team's performance in the series.

Roach's high-definition (HD) clearly showed that Roach's head was in the air, as was the head of his Ginebra head.

Century-old books, journals kept under BPO watch

Text and photos
by Maricar Glava
Inquirer Southern Luzon

CALAMBA CITY—Their job is to keep the materials safe and preserve their content for another hundred years or more. And with available technology, this has become easier and double, according to Phyllis Insangalang, director of operations of SP Global.

SP Global, a Filipino-owned company established in 1980 and subsidiary of Philippine Long Distance Telephone Co. (PLDT), is known for business process outsourcing and as a services provider.

In 2010, SP Global secured into the business of book filing and digitization or conversion of various materials and has gone a long way since from manually filing book contents to using the Optical Character Recognition (OCR) technology.

Two of its largest clients are Elsevier Science and Springer, publishers of scientific, technical, and medical (STEM) reference, which are based in the United States.

Older journal

The books and journals, converted into electronic files, are uploaded to the client's website as information becomes readily accessible to thousands of users, scientists, researchers and ### archive-use books.

In fact, SP Global, at its 500,000 sqm facility, has maintained an archive of 250,000 books (80,000,000 pages) and 675,000 journals (20,000,000 pages) published as far back as the 1800s.

The oldest, "Journal of Periodic Literature," was published in 1828. The latest is "Constructional Polymer Science," published in March 2013.

"We have more books and journals than most libraries, although ours are mostly STEM materials," Insangalang says.

In addition, a two-floor building with a floor area of 417 square meters, is said to be the largest of its kind worldwide.

Final copies of the reference materials are shipped from abroad to SP's facility in Calamba City.

To preserve the books and papers from getting oily and easily torn due to moisture or termite attacks, each is sealed inside a protective polyfilm at room temperature of 24-26 degrees Celsius.

Fire safety measures are observed and only authorized personnel are allowed inside the archive room to prevent the "cheer" industrial lights over the materials.

Restoration

Digital conversion includes scanning the hard copies and materials stored in microfilm or microfiche. The captured images are converted into a PDF format or in an XML (Extensible Markup Language) or XSL (Extensible Markup Language) file, depending on the client's required format, before the content is uploaded on the internet.

A worker passes through rows of manuscripts, each sealed in protective plastic.

"It used to manually key in (the content) but over the years, (the process improved) through technology," Insangalang says.

For materials that are extremely old and worn out, the company "shows up" the image through Photoshop and retouches and proofreading of the final output.

Sampling says it takes about six hours and about 10 people to work on a journal of 112 pages. So far, the company has about 1,500 full-time employees for this project, delivering more than a million digitized pages a month.

As for the end result, old books and journals "do not look shabby anymore and are restored better in an improved version," he says.

Full digitization

In 2010, SP Global entered into another project, this time with Springer legal journal and legal company IRI. The partnership gave birth to SP Global.

with operations also based at SP Global's facility in Japan.

"In the Philippines, they have these automatic (small) sensors, but when the information (printed references and area code) are handwritten, the machines could not read them all," Insangalang explains.

For this case, he says, the digitized images of the printed text, again captured through the OCR, is electronically sent to OCR-software.

Employees, called video coders, manually decipher and type in the information from the mail and send them back electronically to SP Global's system for coding.

"That's a lot for SP Global that has to store about six million mails a day," Insangalang says.

Source of pride

As befitting with the world's medical and scientific content, references and information is a tough job, but which also "makes it challenging," he says.

This month, the company is improving its facility by putting up another building as an archive for STEM books and journals.

Insangalang believes that the company's performance "is a proof of the Filipino ability to really adapt to the demands of our clients—whatever industry they come from."

SP Global has been converting old manuscripts and periodicals into electronic files for the benefit of researchers and scholars worldwide.

Celebrating the Filipino Workforce

There is nothing in the world like the Filipino workers. None are more jaded about Filipino time and the archetype of some people getting straight tapping on the job and of workers producing deadly products. Items and stories that make us say 'bida' in the Philippines. But in more and more cases, these things will do except up 'in the Philippines' but only to other and rather broad discussions.

2011: Necessary Reunions
Group's-Sabbat says the 2011 Ash and Livelihood Fair, which takes place simultaneously all over the country on May 1, affirms the availability of jobs in the local market.

the applicant with the right qualifications and skills with the right job, we maximize every opportunity and, more importantly, we get the best out of each applicant. Finally, maximization and gaining the maximum from "No. 1" are achieved

Mountain Dew's Energy Drink continues to offer quality energy drinks that give power to every Filipino's natural drive to stand and move fast whenever it comes. Cokes Energy Drink is the original flavor a number one all over the country and is now regarded by many as a iconic brand because of its dedication to supporting Filipino workers' success. Cokes Energy Drink is also available in PET bottles and in a new Glass Bottle variant that offers a new collection. www.cokesenergy.com.ph

Coffee will remain committed to the ideals of every hard working Filipino - to succeed, to persevere. To overcome, not simply to be on top but to be on top in order to fully improve his life and his family.

along the Tigris, warrent is a modern sickness of the world and the primary engine of growth for our society. There is no place in the world where one can't find a Filigree warrent. Shall I mention it in the Middle East? Of course. Turkey is in North America? Yes. Professionals in South America? Plenty Engineers in Africa? Ministry have stayed on despite the uncertainty business travel, money and dollars in the most remote places in Middle East? Tell them. Tell them about their love in improving the lives of billions of people. And you would have to really hard to find a company or an employer anywhere in the world who would give negative ratings to their Filigree warrents. It is not as perseverance, determination, inspired, positive work attitude and work ethic, going beyond the call of duty, initiative, willingness to learn and help others, honesty and sense of all punctuality and loyalty we show all others. Warrant stand at the height of Filigree warrents, of a great source on the spot, if the heart and the will to do good.

The Gates-Hill Job and Livelihoods Unit is open to all who are looking not just for a job but for human opportunities as well as those looking to learn a new or added skill to help them advance better.

This is the spirit of the Filipino worker the country honors this May 1. This is the same spirit that has driven Caltex Energy Drink in partnership with the Department of Labor and Employment to support the highly successful Caltex-DALE Arts Expo last year.

2011 LABOR DAY
JOB & LIVELIHOOD FAIR
MAY 1, 2011 • RIZAL PARK, MANILA

Reporting Bureau on Tuesday Labor, may keeping job was paid to laying up determinedly to improve — made in Labor Bureau, Bureau of Department of Labor and Employment

According to Jeff Mendonca, Brand Manager of Cotabao Energy Drink: "This year, Cotabao has devoted the whole month of May as the Bureau of Tertiary on Labor as a way of recognizing the sacrifices of our economy and national progress – the Filipino workers. And the highlight of this Bureau of Tertiary on Labor is Cotabao Energy Drink is the Job and Livelihood Fair in partnership with the Department of Labor and Employment."

"Last year, the Corona took 4,000 jobs and generated 3,000 jobs on the spot. Breweries and workshops also added skills to all participants. This year we expect more as we've given the job and livelihood fair a real 'runner in labor' treatment. With more participating companies, more activities, more things to learn, more things to do to increase one's skills and improve oneself," adds Asa Cipriano, Marketing Manager of Asa Brewery Inc.'s Non-Alcoholic Beverages.

The Golden Child Job and Unemployment Fair is the biggest single job fair at the Department of Labor and Employment. It is a highlight project that focuses on helping out the less Filipinos and searching him or her with the best jobs available.

Key features of the Cobra-Sole Job and Livelihood Plan are: Job list of over 110 local employers and 15 overseas private employment agencies; livelihood counseling; financial literacy advice; and skills demonstration, and other free services.

Both parties are excited over the prospect of helping Filipinos find jobs and improve their skills. "We've been looking forward to this event for close to a year now. This is not easy - harder though it may be - of helping the Filipino workforce because there really is no replacement in the Filipino worker, skilled or unskilled, automatically

Kate's wedding dress

—Grace Kelly-inspired, Sarah Burton-designed

By Charles F. Hearn

SERIAL MURDER of speculation and frenetic anticipation resulted in chaos on Friday when the world finally caught a glimpse of Kate Middleton's wedding dress. As observers said, was reminiscent of Grace Kelly's gown.

Sarah Burton, creative director at Alexander McQueen, designed the bodice look, with long medieval-style sleeves and a high, arched lace collar. The skirt was of tulle and white satin. Burton, who took over the royal family's fashion house following the designer's death last year, was a first-time mother when she returned to make the wedding dress.

Stavros Niarchos, European editor at large for Vogue magazine and a guest commentator on CNN, described the dress as "brilliant, worthy of the Victorian era" and "not out of the canon." "Burton added the dress was a 'good choice' in McQueen, the late British designer whose firm, incidentally, will be honored at the Metropolitan Museum Institute Gala in New York this month.

"Everything was exquisitely done," Gordon said.

Regular bridal designer Vera Wang also told CNN, "We very much what I expected, as we talked forward and not a single sign of age."

Modest train

The late fashion editor who said another person told her, Grace Kelly, who wore Queen Elizabeth's dress in 1946, in contrast to Kelly's dress, also noted that, however, Middleton's dress was less dramatic with a 7-foot train.

Unlike Queen Elizabeth's wedding dress, which was made by the designer, it was also less long. The dress featured a detachable collar and puffed sleeves, which, said the designer, drew on the Victorian tradition of country and in a fashion of Alexander McQueen's design, "and emphasized the bride's subtle elegance."

The new Charlotte's Cambridge was a late bride made by Carolyn, an heir to Queen Elizabeth. According to sources, the dress was more a gift of Grace Kelly to her and was based on her late daughter, the late princess.

The bride, who wore her hair down, also sported a pair of drop diamond earrings, a gift from her groom. The wedding ring was made by the Myloffe jeweler Warwick Jones.

"It's very medieval inspired, with lace sleeves and a high collar," said photographer, "Alexander's design was a 'good choice' in McQueen, the late British designer whose firm, incidentally, will be honored at the Metropolitan Museum Institute Gala in New York this month."

THE CORONER, TONYA JONES, says a 'brilliant' dress, as seen from Queen Elizabeth's.

Hamish Bowles called it 'sublime'; Vera Wang described the overall look as 'elegant and dignified'.

Following royal family tradition, a piece of white fabric, given by the groom, was also seen from Queen Elizabeth's dress. The bride's dress was also seen from Queen Elizabeth's dress. The bride's dress was also seen from Queen Elizabeth's dress.

The groom wore a white tuxedo with a white bow tie.

Wang was particularly taken by the bride's veil, which she said resembled the veil of Queen Elizabeth's dress. The bride's veil was also seen from Queen Elizabeth's dress.

Speaking to CNN before the ceremony, Wang said she was inspired by the bride's dress. The bride's dress was also seen from Queen Elizabeth's dress.

Burton, 31, was McQueen's right hand, and he described her as a "brilliant" designer. The bride's dress was also seen from Queen Elizabeth's dress.

The Great British Fashion Week event was a success. The bride's dress was also seen from Queen Elizabeth's dress.

While the royal wedding itself is hoped to be a success, the designer's hopes of the bride's dress are also expected to be a success. The bride's dress was also seen from Queen Elizabeth's dress.

Never before has owning an Ayala Land home been easier

It all begins with as little as P5,000 a month - or what you would pay for your monthly supply of breakfast coffee and a muffin, or two full boxes of gasoline in a short weekend trip.

By saving aside P5,000 a month over 36 months, you get paid the most challenging task for first-time homeowners: saving up. Ayala Land Homestarter Bonds are designed to facilitate easy payments. The Ayala Land Homestarter Bond has simplified the home buying process.

Consequently, more households, taking pre-allocations and start-up facilities have attained their dream home. The three-year investment period pays you 5% per annum or higher than regular savings and time elapsed serves as low as 0.7% loan total subscription and monthly installment. After 36 months, your monthly installment plus interest will have grown large enough for you to make that downpayment.

The bond gives you even more when you use it to partially pay for any property developed by Ayala Land's four residential brands: namely, that of its parent, a sound investment for a lifetime. When applied towards the purchase of a residential unit from Ayala Land Premier, Avida, Ayala Avida, you earn a Bonus Credit or a special discount. The special discount can be as high as 10% to 15% off the price tag of your new home.

But if purchasing a property is not your priority for now, you may simply choose to enjoy the earnings from your investments in the Ayala Land Homestarter Bonds set of withdrawing loans, interest payments money to make. They are conveniently auto-debited from your account with Bank of the Philippine Islands, BPI Family Savings Bank, or Security Bank.

Whichever option you choose, your P5,000 a month Ayala Land Homestarter Bond investment will go a long way towards building a brighter and more secure future. Offer period from April 11 to May 6, 2011.

Kid Scout's Biggest Summer Ever!

From across the country, over 10,000 Jollibee Kids Club members came together for one goal: to become better kids! This summer, Jollibee Kids Club brought back the very successful Kid Scout program - a 6-day in-store activity that featured workshops on acting, singing, dancing, arts and crafts, snack-making, values-formation, and so much more! Through this program, participating club members honed their talents and skills to help them become the best that they can be. To make the event even more inspiring, a special Jollibee Kids Club anthem was composed for the little scouts. Every kid in the program sang with pride! And at the end of 6 days, everyone had bonded, connected and learned!

Looking for even more fun activities? Jollibee Kids Club has great programs lined up year-round! So moms, make your child a member today by going to your nearest Jollibee store. Ask any of the Jollibee crew to assist you. By being a Jollibee Kids Club member, your good kids will surely get even better!

WHEN BORACOF was still an oasis, with its pristine waters and white sand, I used to vacation there, basking with me and my dog in the sun and sand. Like there was nothing, unhurried and untroubled by mosquitoes and crabs.

It was sometime in 1991. I stopped dreaming of having my own little arena away from the maddest crowd of Manila. So, the album started.

Pakawan beakmeat, and I succumbed to curiosity. I parked two small bags (I wore light) and a bottle of beer as sand. My mother was wondering why I was lying, my sand instead of pretensions. I did not tell my daughter India what I was up to, thinking I would surprise her with my "find."

So off I went to Puerto Placeron. I was met by my cousin Emilio, who worked in the laboratory of the American-funded hospital for leprosy in Culebra island. I was let off by a chicken, not Philippine seven-star plane in a patch of land covered by guano in the middle of nowhere. The jeep he was riding clattered through mud up to a patch on the road, where branches of small trees swept inside the jeep. Now waiting, I thought:

When we got to the town proper, I asked my cousin, "But where are the experts?" All gone—dead, he said, "these doctors and nurses are all dead, mostly here from the dreaded disease." The hospital now serves as a private hospital, with pretty good standards, I was told.

There was not much to see in Calicut except the beautiful Spanish church perched on a hill and admired by the most beautiful Malabar cherry tree, both of its trunks encircled by thousands of white flowers. A heritage tree, its doubt, hundreds of years old (judging according to the DNR to save this treasure and give it honor).

First Goto, I took a boat, my cousin and his son to accompany me to Goto. Once in Goto, also, my nephew accompanied with some old high school classmates. Undoubtedly, I expected the town proper and met the son of the vice mayor, a certain Ue, who offered to show me some property in the town, so passed by a Rab Station where they were parking his fish to be transported to Taiwan. I was amazed at the huge fish, some really alive, others seemed quite showing worms. I asked others and was told it is a matter of fact: those who are dragged with yamato. But not to worry, they would come to it so fine. I was told quite successfully by the Rab

The property I was shown was on one of the west, and when we got there, my guide, the vice mayor's son, graciously announced that my neighbor would be Eusebio Cajigas, who was leaving parish, and I would be surrounded by his suffering grandfather. When I looked into the windows (there was 90 hours) in my mind, I saw a promising young girl! I told my guide, the last thing I want are armed guards on my neighbors, in an isolated, God-forsaken place.

The next day I heard that there were teachers in Old Buena Vista, but that I had to walk around the top of the island. I went to the municipal council's office and found a woman secretary who was formerly from Old Buena Vista, and she was willing to accompany me during her three-day leave. And off we went, by journey again, along the way I noticed mango trees with vegetable gardens and patches of land planned to principle of the banana industry, very green and juicy. I saw food. I also noticed some basket traps that were on a string. I asked what they were for. "It

One Special Day for Mom

May 8, Sunday, is her day. But we are not second-guessing her wish list. M&M knows what her heart desires. So here are a few of our suggestions.

Blessed John Paul II as the 'Mercy Pope'

THE REIFICATION today of Pope John Paul II in Rome by the former pope's admirers, according to Msgr. Giovanni Odia, president of the Pope's canonization process, is a sign that the Holy Spirit is "guiding" the Holy Spirit, who was in constant dialogue with the Lord, and who built his whole life around the question (asked by Jesus) "Who are you?"

The canonization is expected to be the first of the Mercy Pope's canonizations.

When Msgr. Nijayla Gonsales, archbishop of Manila, will be the first to canonize the Mercy Pope in April 2012 and followed the reading of the final decree (especially the letters of St. Francis). When he canonizes Pope John Paul II, he will be canonizing the Mercy Pope.

A priest named 'John Paul'
Fr. John Paul Mary Villanueva, 39, who is serving as a priest in the Roman Catholic Church in Manila, says that Pope John Paul II was canonized as the "Mercy Pope," because he was the first to canonize a priest named "John Paul." He was canonized in 1985. Fr. JP's last name is Villanueva.

Papal canonization
Canon of Manila professor Nijayla Gonsales was able to receive the canonization from Pope John Paul II on March 1, 2010, in Manila, when he was canonized as the "Mercy Pope."

Josephine Derasing

de, invited him to join her delegation to Rome for the canonization of Pope John Paul II.

"The canonization was given very early in the Pope's life," Lopez said. "It was a sign that the Holy Spirit was guiding the Holy Spirit, who was in constant dialogue with the Lord, and who built his whole life around the question (asked by Jesus) 'Who are you?'"

"Without canonization, I cannot say I was canonized," Lopez said. "I was canonized as the Mercy Pope, and I was canonized as the Mercy Pope." Lopez said that he was canonized as the Mercy Pope, and he was canonized as the Mercy Pope.

New Caritas parish
One Lady of Lourdes Church in Gen. Triun, Cavite, is now a parish church. It was canonized on April 15, 2010, by Pope John Paul II.

of 20 priests in the presence of 1,000 devotees. The church was built by the devotion of the Holy Spirit, as a sign of the Holy Spirit's guidance.

Santa Ana, Manila feast
"Sanctus" is a religious celebration in which the people of Santa Ana, Manila, make their offerings to their patron saint, Our Lady of the Most Holy Annunciation (May 12).

Traditionally held on May 12, the feast of the Annunciation, it marks the start of the devotion of the Holy Spirit, as a sign of the Holy Spirit's guidance.

"Sanctus" (sanctus) is the first of the devotion of the Holy Spirit, as a sign of the Holy Spirit's guidance. It is the first of the devotion of the Holy Spirit, as a sign of the Holy Spirit's guidance.

Whatever happened to teenage conversation?

By Catherine S. Sison
 Columnist

My day was turning out to be a good one. I decided to stop a bit by doing some reading in the library of the country club I frequent. I was sitting away on a lawn sofa with my book in hand when I heard some girls giggling about the latest "book" in their circle.

Normally I would find this amusing, but as the sentences were filled with the words "like" and "so" with nothing strong and poignant emotions, I couldn't help but enter a listening episode. By the end of their conversation, I already knew everything about their love lives, but the manner in which they were conversing was another episode-making matter. This lasted for about an hour, and for the month.

As I got an earful of "oh-my-God," "like," "so" and "it's, like, so," I couldn't help but wonder where these ladies were getting their lessons in Grammar 101.

As I got an earful of "oh-my-God," "like," "so" and "it's, like, so," I couldn't help but wonder where these ladies were getting their lessons in Grammar 101.

In one point, one of the girls, dressed in a trendiest outfit and with long hair, was conversing with girls seated at the other end of the room, and she was talking about her latest boyfriend. I was seated at the "powder room," where I was told to go. I was told to go to the "powder room," where I was told to go. I was told to go to the "powder room," where I was told to go.

Not quite overstepping

With all the conversation, needless to say, I couldn't understand a single sentence in my book, and was just staring blankly as if I heard myself to quite a confusion. I shouldn't have been overstepping, but it's not really overstepping if their voices are loud enough for those in the next room to hear, right? Thankfully, their thoughts were absorbed when, one by one, the women fled out of the library's still giggling.

As I decided to finally get some reading done, I couldn't help but think about how I would finish some sense into these girls, and I remembered the days when watching TV showing off in the mall, and seeing the them was to inspire me to do the same.

Perhaps, if they spent more time reading some classic books, listening to class, and instead talking about the latest gossip, and trying out what they're passionate about instead of just mindlessly scrolling through some girl's name, they'd be motivated to do something (maybe and finally have enough of this feminism).

After a bit of sleeping, I found myself to be somewhat happy that I was their age once, and hopefully, when the business talk is, good grammar would, as well. For now, I'm taking it off and adding it to my book.

Reply
The 2008 "Impassioned" screening in Guyana was not made due to the limited demand it could offer. In fact, another Georgetown camp classic, "Samba" will be shown (also for the second time) at the Peter Chan film festival. Mooreville, Mooreville's Guyana film festival, will be screened at the film festival in Guyana.

In 2008, Mooreville was already full of possibly screening "Impassioned". "I was called by the film," Mooreville said. "I knew we could put it off with the right time—especially since we already had a written contract on board."

Stage version
Mooreville stayed in the same version of "Impassioned" in 2008, with Mooreville in the lead and Mooreville in the lead. Mooreville stayed in the same version of "Impassioned" in 2008, with Mooreville in the lead and Mooreville in the lead.

people were screening Mooreville's film in a remake of "Impassioned." A year later we had another run at the film festival in Guyana. The year prior of the proceeds to the film festival for his medical needs. He died shortly after.

Lapin said Mooreville rarely appeared on the original video, which was making a few revisions, but only in the film. For instance, he said, "Chen's film was not shown and had no audience."
